Gerard & Kelly Ruins

Exhibition from October 14, 2022 to March 26, 2023

Bringing together films, installations, drawings, prints, and performance from nearly a decade of Gerard & Kelly's collaboration, Ruins at Carré d'Art marks the duo's first European museum exhibition.

In recent years Carré d'Art has opened its programming and collection to performance and contemporary dance, including exhibitions by Anne Imhof, Emmanuelle Huynh and Jocelyn Cotencin, and Tarik Kiswanson, as well as A Different Way to Move. Gerard & Kelly's Ruins extends this engagement with bodies and gestures to questions of site-specificity, examining how histories of sexuality, gender, race, and power intersect and entangle in architecture.

As a cornerstone to Ruins, Gerard & Kelly present work from their ongoing series Modern Living, mining what the artists call "ruins of modernism" for their hidden choreographies and radical social experiments. On view in the exhibition is Schindler/Glass (2017), a two-channel video installation filmed at the Schindler House in West Hollywood, California, and Philip Johnson's Glass House in Connecticut. Both are homes the architects built for themselves to shelter relationships as experimental as their designs. Schindler designed his house in 1921 for two young couples in an early example of communal living, while Johnson built his 1949 all-glass house in the forest to shelter life with his partner David Whitney. In Schindler/Glass, the modernist home becomes the frame for "modern" intimacies, where dancers fall in and out of sync, couple and split, and learn to live together.

Shown for the first time as an installation in Nîmes, Panorama (2021) was shot at the Bourse de Commerce prior to the museum's opening as the Pinault Collection. The Parisian building, originally a grain market, was transformed in the 19th century into a shrine for the glory of commerce and finance. The panoramic paintings in the rotunda, dating from 1889, are a testimony to French colonialism. Three performers of different origins, cultures, and artistic backgrounds—Soa de Muse, recently seen in Drag Race France, and dancers Guillaume Diop and Germain Louvet of the Paris Opera Ballet—inhabit the empty rotunda re-designed by Tadao Ando. Scored to the music of American composer Julius Eastman, the film confronts the monumentality of the architecture with the fragility of performing bodies and a multiplicity of identities.

The exhibition also includes several site-specific interventions. Gerard & Kelly's first short fiction, Bright Hours (2022), will be projected at the Cinéma Sémaphore in Nîmes. Inspired by the fleeting encounter between architect Le Corbusier and the American dancer and singer Josephine Baker on a transatlantic cruise, Bright Hours imagines how this relationship transformed modern architecture.

The Maison Carrée is itself the subject of a new installation created for the exhibition. While researching the site, the artists discovered a little-known history: Thomas Jefferson, ambassador to France from 1785 to 1789 before becoming the third president of the United States, visited Nîmes. He fell in love with the Maison Carrée and made it the model for the Capitol building in his home state of Virginia. Designed as a symbol of civilization, Jefferson's Capitol became a monument to barbarism when appropriated as the seat of the slave-holding South during the American Civil War.

A catalog co-edited by Mousse accompanies the exhibition, with an essay by art historian Miwon Kwon and a conversation among Lou Forster and Gerard & Kelly.

BIOGRAPHY

Brennan Gerard and Ryan Kelly have collaborated as Gerard & Kelly since 2003. Their performances, installations, and films use choreography, writing, drawing, and sculpture to address questions of sexuality, memory, and the formation of queer consciousness. American artists, they have lived and worked in Paris since 2018.

Gerard & Kelly have developed a site-specific practice. Since 2016, they have created a series of performances and films in iconic sites of modern architecture, including the R.M. Schindler House in West Hollywood, California; Philip Johnson's Glass House in New Canaan, Connecticut; and Mies van der Rohe's Farnsworth House in Plano, Illinois, as part of the 2017 Chicago Architecture Biennial. In France, the duo received a 2018-2019 residency at the Cité internationale des arts, where they created the performance Modern Living at Le Corbusier's Villa Savoye, presented as part of the Festival d'Automne in Paris. In 2019 they choreographed a performance at the Getty Museum in Los Angeles in collaboration with Solange Knowles. They have most recently completed two films, the first shot within Tadao Ando's architectural intervention at the Bourse de Commerce-Pinault Collection in Paris and the second at the Cité Radieuse in Marseille. For each of these sites, Gerard & Kelly deploy dance, music, and language as tools to explore the "ruins" of modernism and uncover their hidden choreographies and radical social experiments.

Participants in the Whitney Museum Independent Study Program in New York in 2009-2010, they graduated with MFAs from UCLA's Department of Art Interdisciplinary Studio in 2013. Gerard & Kelly have presented and exhibited their work in France and internationally, including at the Palais de Tokyo, CND Centre national de la danse, and Centre Pompidou in Paris; MAMCO in Geneva; Whitney Museum of American Art, New Museum, and The Kitchen in New York; and The Museum of Contemporary Art (MOCA) in Los Angeles. They contributed to the 2017 Chicago Architecture Biennial and the 2014 Made in LA biennial at the Hammer Museum. Gerard & Kelly received the 2014 New York Dance and Performance Awards (Bessies) Jury Prize. Their work has been supported by the French Ministry of Culture, the Fondation d'entreprise Hermès as part of its New Settings program, the Graham Foundation and the FUSED (French-US Exchange in Dance) grant.

Their work is in the collections of Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York, Hammer Museum in Los Angeles, LACMA Los Angeles County Museum of Art, FRAC Franche-Comté in Besançon, and the Carré d'Art - Musée d'art contemporain de Nîmes.

The artists have been commissioned within the framework of Mondes nouveaux ["New worlds"] to create their next film at Eileen Gray's Villa E-1027 in 2023.

EVENT AROUND THE EXHIBITION

OFF-SITE : SEMAPHORE CINEMA, Nîmes

11 FEBRUARY

Bright Hours, 2022, 4K video, color, sound, 25 minutes

The encounter between architect Le Corbusier and American dancer Josephine Baker on a 1929 transatlantic cruise is the departure point for Gerard & Kelly's new film. The artists infuse the modernist perfection of the Cité Radieuse with joyful sensuality and subversive force, reimagining Le Corbusier's modernist masterpiece as a ship floating on the horizon – suspending, for the duration of the voyage, norms and boundaries. Bright Hours features performances by Jeanne Balibar, Emara Neymour-Jackson, and Geramin Louvet, with an original score by Moses Sumney.

UPCOMING EXHIBITIONS

2023 : 30 YEARS OF CARRE D'ART

Exhibition dedicated to the presentation of a selection of works from the collection. It is a way of evoking the history of the Carré d'Art over three decades. During these years, artistic practices have changed as the role of the museum institution has evolved.

The collection of the museum of contemporary art will be on the two levels of exhibitions, in the hall (Foster Gallery) and on level -1

Opening in early May (date to be confirmed)

This presentation will also be extended to other museums in the city with works that resonate with their collections. The exhibitions will form a route through the city.
